WON BY A SPURT.

The Annual Contest on the Schuylhall for the childs Cup Won by Cornell by a Brilliant Sport When the University of disvivania Crew Thought They Had it in Their Graso.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.-The annual miles straight away, and the only other competitor for the trophy was the University of Pennsylvania eight. The race was the most remarkable ever rowed over the course, and the Cornells won it in the last one hundred yards after the the Pennsylvanians would win. The rains, and the current was very strong. The start was made at 5.35 p. m., and be-fore the Cornells had taken half a dozen strokes a swell struck their boat, dreuching the oarsmen, throwing them out of lead of nearly two learths. Cornell also shipped 75 or 100 pounds of water which they carried over the course. The Ithaca men quickly gathered themselves and pulled a quick, steady stroke of 40 to their opponents's 36. At the halfmile the Pennsylvanias led by about two lengths, and at the mile their lead was unchanged. At the one-and-a-quartermile post Pennsylvania led by only a length. The relative positions were maintained until within a hundred yards of the finish, when the Cornells made one of the grandest spurts ever witnessed on the Schuylkill, and won by one-quarter of a length. Time, 6:40;

University's time, 6:40%. Courtney, who has charge of the Cornell crew, ran along the foot-path the last half mile of the race, coaching and shouting words of encouragement to his crew. The finish was witnessed by great crowds on both banks who greeted the victors with hearty cheers. Courtney was very enthusiastic over the finish. He had almost given up hope of his crew winning, the University seemingly hav-ing the race in hand, but the Cornells' grand spurt at the finish to which the Universitys were unable to respond, changed the complexion of things and gave them an unexpected victory.

THE LAST STRAW.

The Back of the "Agreement Am., 1g Gentlemen" in Danger of Being Broken by the Last Straw Laid Upon It by the Bultimore & Ohio, and a Freight War Imminent.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 6,-Commenting pon the reduction in freight rates made by the Baltimore & Ohio road, which goes to effect to-day, Hambleton's Circular says: The cut in grain rates by the Baltimore & Ohio was the last straw which threatens to break the back of the "agreement among gentlemen." The cut rate is seventeen cents from Chicago to Baltimore, and eighteen to Philadelphia. Whether the step taken by the Baltimore & Ohio is a wise one remains to be seen. If the Baltimore & Ohio is permitted to carry freight at a reduced rate without the reduction being met by other lines, it would, of course, secure a very large traffic, and enjoy an advantage; but it is not to be presumed that such will be the case, as more than likely the other roads will make such sweeping reductions as that only the fittest will survive. One would suppose the Baltimore & Ohio would be about the last road to take any action which might precipitate a railroad war. The last management tried the expertment of "taking independent action," which policy was so disastrous as to bring the Baltimore & Ohio to the verge of bankruptcy, from which it escaped only by appealing to the Drexel-Morgan Syndicate for aid and by paying dearly for the assistance rendered.

A Physician Discourses on Their Causes

"There are many kinds of headaches," said a doctor recently. "In these days the nervous headache is a very distinct variety. It is generally located in front of the head, across the forehead over the eyes. It may be in other parts, though-at the top of the head, at one or both sides, at the back, or all over. It is painful, depressing, disabling. A man feels at the height of the paroxysm like a hunter who has galloped his legs clean off, and who could not leap a threefoot ditch to save his life. The spur is of no use, neither is the whip. The pain in the head is worse to bear than either, and the patient will rather ondure both whip and spur than make any kind of effort which will make the head pain worse. Physic by itself is of no use. There is not a single drug know to medical science which will of itself at once and permanently cure a nervous headache. On the other hand drugs are not always needed. A complete change of air and circumstances will usually take away the pain in ten or twelve hours. Perfect rest of a duration proportioned to the severity and long continuance of the symptoms will make the cure permanent. There are, of course, methods of relieving and diminishing the pain until such time as it may be possible to obtain the complete rest But the rest is the thing to be secured at all costs. If not, the pain goes from the choicest brands of tea are used, bad to worse and the risk from less to greater. The final consequence it is impossible to predict, except that a breakdown sooner or later is inevitable, and the breakdown may be for a year or for lifetime. A nervous headache is a danger signal; if it be frequent the danger is increased; and, if continuous, a catastrophe is imminent.
